Since January 2003, Alabama's economy has created more than 42,000 new jobs. These announcements drive home the fact that our economy has rebounded and is stronger than it has been in years. From the Gulf Coast to the Tennessee border, new jobs are being created and unemployment is down. Alabama is clearly headed in the right direction.

As reflected in this report, a total of 571 projects were announced in 2004, representing 24,294 new jobs for Alabama's citizens. These companies invested $2,746,750,461 into our state's economy. This economy, one that was weak and bleeding jobs just two years ago, is now recognized as one of the strongest in America. A recent study by the Washington-based Corporation for Enterprise Development ranked Alabama in the top 10 out of all 50 states in a variety of economic indicators. We rank fourth among the 50 states in employment growth, fourth in average annual pay growth and first in the variety of industry located in our state.

For the second consecutive year, Alabama has been named "State of the Year" by Southern Business and Development magazine. This publication covers 17 southern states. To be number one in this region is a great achievement for Alabama. Together, these states comprise the fourth largest economy in the world. In 2004, Alabama also was ranked as one of the top 10 states to locate a business by Plants, Sites and Parks Magazine.

However, before we make the mistake of patting ourselves on the back, let's remember: government does not create jobs. It only helps create the conditions that make jobs more or less likely. The real credit for our economic renewal belongs to the people of Alabama. We've made government their partner.

ADO

services

The primary mission of the Alabama Development Office (ADO) is to enhance the economic well-being of Alabama's citizens by creating jobs.

ADO accomplishes its mission through active recruitment of new industry, support of existing industry expansion in the state, and the promotion of trade with other countries.

Business Development

The Business Development Division includes Recruiting and Existing Industry support. The major objectives of ADO's Recruitment department are to attract industry to Alabama, to encourage and promote foreign manufacturing investment in the state, and to support expansion and retention of existing businesses. The department works closely with economic developers throughout the state, facilitating a cooperative effort to recruit U.S. and foreign based companies. They also recognize the importance of the state's existing industries and consider retention and expansion of Alabama companies to be an integral part of recruitment strategies.

Research, Trade & Communications

This division provides services to ADO's other divisions as well as outside organizations, giving them the technical support they need to market the state to industrial clients. In addition to developing and providing comprehensive data, the division supports ADO's media communications efforts; compiles and produces the Alabama Industrial Directory; designs and produces custom proposals and publications; produces customized tax analyses; compiles the new and expanding capital investment and job announcements, and is responsible for "Developing Alabama" - the newsletter of the Alabama Development Office.

Community Services

Community Services supports local efforts in Community and Rural Development and in state/regional Existing Industry outreach and policy activity. The division attempts to determine additional roles and responsibilities for the state in assisting communities and counties as well as the programs and policies that can better support the state's existing businesses.

ADO is a partner in the Alabama Communities of Excellence (ACE) Program, a comprehensive approach toward the development of smaller communities throughout Alabama. Members of the partnership provide a services to create growth and other opportunities for sustainability. During the process, each community receives some of the best technical assistance available. More importantly, the community adopts a process that clearly maps out a direction for it to follow identifying specific goals, objectives, and milestones of accomplishment along the way.

International Trade

ADO's International Trade Division helps companies establish working relationships with export and other professionals, building knowledge that results in expanding international business opportunities. The department accomplishes its mission through several specific activities designed to complement the existing trade promotion programs of local, state and federal agencies.

These activities include special programs and trade events including trade missions, trade shows, and catalog missions. Foreign buyers are encouraged to include Alabama in their U.S.A. itineraries, and the state's exporters and importers receive mass mailings and special publications such as the Alabama International Trade Directory. The department co-sponsors and supports a variety of export development activities for other Alabama organizations.

Alabama Film Office

The Alabama Film Office promotes the state to the film and video industry as a site for on-location production for feature films; television; music videos; industrial and corporate training films; and commercials.

In addition to scouting locations, this office maintains a file of more than 20,000 photographs of potential sites and publishes the Alabama Production Directory, which is used as a location resource guide.

Projects produced in the state brought in $18,672,500 in direct benefits to local and state governments in 2004 alone. With the inclusion of multipliers or "the ripple effect", the impact on Alabama's economy could be close to $50 million. Projects included films such as "Constellation" and "Heaven's Fall", television segments, commercials, documentaries and foreign television, music videos, short films, student films, corporate training films, public service announcements, print photographs and building and set construction.

Our Sources

The information contained in this publication was compiled from several sources. Information about new industries and expansions is provided by Alabama Development Office (ADO) project managers who worked on the projects. Data is also obtained from local and regional economic developers and the state news media.

A large part of the information about expansions comes from the companies themselves. ADO distributes a survey to all known manufacturers near the end of each calendar year. Companies completing the survey report on job creation and investment during the current year as well as expansions planned for the future.

The survey data and other written or printed verifying data is maintained by ADO for one year.

The information in this report is what companies have announced. Industrial development is sometimes a lengthy process and it may take several years before the announced investment is completed and all the jobs are created.

The ADO staff appreciates the cooperation of everyone who contributed to this report and worked with us to create more and better jobs for the people of Alabama.
